"If you want to put the world right, start with yourself."

Chet's Chat

Our baseball team has started its season in fine fashion. Three opponent teams have already met defeat at the expense of our nine. This year, Textile has one of the hardest hitting teams that has ever represented our institute. The team should have a very successful season because it is practically a veteran nine. "Zeke" Garner, our ace pitcher, is as good a pitcher as one can find in the collegiate ranks. Paul Muller, also a pitcher, who is a new member of the squad, is shaping into a dependable hurler and will see plenty of action on the mound. "Jerry" Savard our football and basketball star—is playing his usual outstanding game. "Mike" Kokosha, the captain of the team, is also contributing greatly to Textile's victories. Incidentally "Mike" is one of these all-around players on the team. He can pitch, catch, and play any other position on the diamond equally well. There is one member of the team who played last year and is playing this year, but he is somewhat handicapped this season because he has raised a mustache. He is "Cy" Shapiro. Many an opponent pitcher will be tempted to shave off "Cy's" mustache with a fast "bean-ball."

"Cliff" Gillespie and "Bob" Graham have experienced the "pressures" of a car without actually owning one. The last couple of weeks they helped Kopatch change flat tires which occurred every day or so. "Cliff" immediately forsook his morning set-up exercises conducted from station WEEI and depended solely on pumping flat tires for his daily exercise. As a result, he now has a physique which compares well with that of Mahatma Ghandi's.

Upstream day will be held next week. This is one event which will always linger in your memory if you attend it. There is more action, fun, and eats at this outing than at any other event at this institution. If you decide to go, be sure to have a tie on—because there will be plenty of knives or scissors around to cut them off—ask Mr. Edlund. If you happen to need a bath, you will be escorted to the nearby river by a few "chambermaids" and given a washing — ask "Cy" Shapiro. If you want a few tips on how to get plenty of oranges in a scramble for them—ask "Miss" Leslie. Don't miss this event. If you do not have any fun at this outing, it is because you have lumbago or rheumatism. The cost of going is small — the fun is great.

Lowell Textile Opens Season With Victories

Makes Clean Sweep of Connecticut Trip.

Lowell Textile opened its 1933 baseball season by scoring a 9 to 6 victory over Connecticut Aggies, and followed it up the next day by defeating Wesleyan, 7 to 3.

The Connecticut Aggies game was marred with errors, Textile making no fewer than eight of them. However, this can be blamed on lack of practice. Textile connected safely eleven times from the offerings of the Connecticut hurler while the latter team collected but five hits off the combined offerings of Muller, Bukala, and Garner.

In winning over the crack Wesleyan outfit, Textile turned in a much faster and clever exhibition than they had on the previous day against Connecticut State. "Zeke" Garner pitched this game and held the Wesleyan batters to five hits, passed two men, and struck out eight. Textile made seven hits off the Wesleyan hurlers, but made them when they meant runs.

Thus, Textile opened her baseball season with two victories which bid well for a very successful season.

Rifle Shots

The Club has received the annual allotment of ammunition and supplies from the War Department. These are distributed annually to all clubs that are affiliated with the National Rifle Association.

The club hopes to have some of its members pass the standard qualification course, fired at 200 yards, in the near future.

Several designs have been proposed for the emblems, to be awarded by the club to members whose scores equated in the required number of matches fired during the year, and one will be chosen from these in the immediate future.

Unequal Justice

It was the first day of school and two seventh graders kept whispering to each other. Goaded beyond endurance, the teacher announced that both boys must stay after school and write their names 500 times.

To her surprise one wrongdoer almost smiled, but the other's lip trembled and his eyes shone with tears. Suddenly, through clenched teeth, he blurted:

"I won't. It ain't fair."

"You must learn to take your punishment like a man," said the teacher coldly. "Look across the aisle and stop whining. For that and for your bad grammar, you shall write your name 1,000 times. What is fair for one is fair for both."

At this the rebel burst into tears.

"I don't care, it ain't fair," he sobbed. "My name's Beneckendorffer and his name's Lee."

"Going Crooked"

Annual Textile Show and Ball is Presented at the Lowell Auditorium.

On Friday evening, April 28 the annual show by the Textile Players was presented in the Lowell Memorial Auditorium. The play given this year was entitled "Going Crooked," a comedy in three acts by Winchell Smith and William Collier.

"Bob" Jessen and "Ken" Leslie carried the leads and were supported by a strong cast. Again the "women" in the play provided enjoyment for the audience. As it is no easy matter for men to impersonate women, we give full credit to Leslie, Kaiser, and Redmond for their fine work. "Bob" Henderson furnished the comedy as a hard-boiled valet. Credit is due "Dave" Fox, who played the role of "Dugan" the detective.

The play went off smoothly in about two hours, without any hitches, except when the lights refused to work at an exciting moment in the third act. The make-up work was very good, especially on the character parts.

The annual Textile Ball was held after the show with music by the "Silvertown Cord Orchestra," featuring the "Silver Masked Tenor." It was very good and came up to expectations. There was a good crowd on the floor, a lot coming in just for the dancing. A new feature was introduced, that of having only partial lighting for the dance, and it was a success. The dancing lasted until 2 a. m. There were a few who lasted until the last encore.

We also wish to congratulate the members of the management, for without their untiring efforts, the show would not be possible.

1933 PICKOUT A REAL PUBLICATION

It was with great expectation that we all awaited the appearance of the Pickout. When it did appear, our greatest hopes were not dismayed. The write-ups and the pictures were of the higher calibre, as well as the sketches and jokes. Although the entire staff is to be congratulated on its work, the greatest part of the credit should be given to "Ted" Recker and "Ray" Mathews. No one has the slightest conception of the tremendous amount of work and perseverance that this sort of task demands until they themselves make the attempt. Give them their due praise, fellows, as the Pickout once more is a worthy representative of our Institute.

Time Heaileth All Things

"Is the climate in this town healthful?" asked the stranger.

"Sure is," the native replied. "Why, when I came here I couldn't utter a word. I had scarcely a hair on my head, I hadn't strength enough to walk across the room, and I had to be lifted from bed."

"Wonderful!" exclaimed the stranger. "And how long have you been here?"

"I was born here."

Textile Nine Scores Third Straight Win

Defeats Springfield, 5 to 3 — "Zeke" Garner Stars.

Great is the feeling in all loyal Textile hearts;—for on Thursday last, nine athletes representing the red and black on the diamond went to Springfield and returned home with "the bacon"; — "the bacon" being in the form of a five to three victory over the highly-touted Springfield nine.

The game was played under adverse weather conditions, a biting wind sweeping across the diamond throughout the game, making competition uncomfortable for players and spectators alike.

Coach "Rusty" Yarnall decided, in spite of the weather conditions, to start his ace pitcher "Zeke" Garner, who performed unusually well—he allowed but four hits in nine innings. Besides pitching a masterful game, "Zeke" contributed a single and a double to his team's offense and drove in two runs—which represents the margin of victory. Walter Jurek, at the other end of the battery, gave great support to Garner.

Don't Forget Upstream!

Are you going to enjoy the greatest time of all for outdoor enthusiasts—Upstream Day? When this question was asked of the students about a month ago, over a hundred expressed their desire to attend. Consequently, Prof. Cushing has gone ahead and made the necessary plans and arrangements. Now the outing is less than a week away, and still some of the students who previously signed up are in doubt as to their attending the affair. This is entirely the wrong attitude to assume. When a member of the committee in charge approaches you for the price of a ticket, give him your heartiest support. It is really your Day, and it can be successful only through the co-operation of everybody. Buy your ticket if you haven't already done so! If you do go, you will agree that it is one of the best events of the whole school year.

HERBERT R. MAUERSBERGER NOW TEXTILE CONSULTANT

Mr. Herbert R. Mauersberger, '18, wishes to announce that he is conducting a general textile consulting service of a confidential and technical character at his office, 305 Washington Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Mauersberger was graduated from the Institute in 1918, after having studied in the design course. He has held about every position from office boy to assistant general manager in leading textile mills of the country. Since 1927, Mr. Mauersberger has been lecturing on Cottons and Rayons at Columbia University, and is now in charge of all the evening courses in textiles. He is the son of Richard Mauersberger of the Garfield Worsted Mills of Passaic, N. J., and his present home is at 18 Washington Avenue, Rutherford, N. J.

Alumni News

A daughter, Martha, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Folkins of 147 Highland Avenue, Arlington.

Mr. Folkins was graduated from Lowell Textile Institute in 1916.

Arthur Thompson, Jr., '22, Superintendent of the No. Carolina Finishing Co., Salisbury, N. C., was in Lowell recently, with his wife and their children, attending the funeral of his mother. We are sorry to hear of his loss and express our sympathy.

Frank Warsaski, '21, recently severed his connections with Bailey's, Cleansers & Dyers, of Watertown, Mass., and has joined the sales staff of a new home and office heating organization. Best of luck, Frank.

Al Howe, '24, and his wife, are the proud parents of a son, James Albert, Jr., born in February. "Al" is with Wellington Sears Company in their New York office.

WIT and NIT

The Coed's Prayer

I ask nothing for myself . . . only give my mother a son-in-law.

Years ago a girl used to blush when she was embarrassed, now she is embarrassed when she blushes.

Oy, Abe, I hear you had a terrible fire in your shop last Friday. Did it do much damage?"

"Oh no, Moe, next Friday!"

They say love is blind—perhaps that is why some men depend upon their sense of touch.

Stable Manners

"Can you imagine anyone going to bed with his shoes on?"

"No. Can you?"

"Yes. My horse does."

WELCOME TO OUR INSTITUTE

The members of the faculty and the students of the Lowell Textile Institute extend to you, our visitors on Open House Day, a very cordial welcome. We sincerely hope that you will have a visit which is both instructive and interesting.

In order that you may have some conception of our Institute, the following brief outline of its purposes is printed.

The object of the establishment of the School, as set forth in the original act was "for the purpose of instruction in the theory and practical art of textile and kindred branches of industry."

Following the general methods and systems found successful at the higher polytechnic institutes, it offers thorough instruction in principles of the sciences and arts applicable to textile and kindred branches of industry. The courses treat not only of the theory but also the application of these principles in the processes, on the machines and throughout all departments of industry involved in the successful manufacture, application and distribution of textile material in any form.

Because of the breadth, grade, and character of instruction given, and because of the standing and personnel of the instructing staff, the Institute has been placed by both Federal and State educational boards in the class of the higher technological schools of this country.

Man About Textile

Headliner—The 1933 Pickout is now available.—our first impressions: not bad at all, Seniors; it certainly has got the "goods" and we don't mean maybe. — Some of the would-be Valentinos and Clark Gables, after seeing their "classic" profiles therein, appear somewhat crest-fallen and have taken a different view on the subject. — As we understand it, the majority of the Junior Chemists promptly vetoed any plan to enter the fertilizer industry in any capacity whatever, after their recent visit to the Atlantic Chemical Works in Billerica. — "Weaving William" Wynn even gave up the attempt to inspect the building where the tallow is made (he also nearly gave up his breakfast, we hear) — Even Leslie, our proponent of the attractions of Sangus, etc., became considerably faint-hearted—can't take it, eh, what? boys? — Irregardless, most of the students on the trip had a good enough taste of it to last them quite a while. — We note that the students in the various departments have been going on several inspection trips lately, with more proposed for the immediate future—may we lend our encouragement?

The Freshman Class has managed to survive another five weeks, — only three more weeks before the Finals, "fellas." . . . Gift a good substantial look! Harold Smith has now decided to be THE maestro. . . . "Bugs" Belgbeder is now running a very close second—Why the great decline in the Freshman and Sophomore Honor Roll, we wonder. . . . The baseball season has at last begun and Textile is credited with two wins and no defeats; keep it up, team! . . . Have you recovered all your energy yet, after THE BIG NIGHT of the Annual Show? . . It's not often that we have such a really big time. . . . It is rumored that "Les" our well-known leading lady, was "bothered" considerably, while trying on his feminine raiment for the Show, at one of the local department stores,—could you imagine it? For further "info," ask Ken.

The actions of the few so-called strikers in the recent outrage at the Institute are deplorable. Such "valiant" deeds should not pass without comment. Really they are deserving of a reception committee, plus a presentation of a bouquet of "skunk-cabbage." . . . 'T is said a certain well-known saying often heard recently around the Institute is now taboo,—what do you think? . . . From some of the looks of the government's new policy of inflation, to increase the value of the dollar, the result to us is obvious,—it will inflate the dollar but deflate our pocketbook. . . . Cheer up, boys: it will soon be fly time around the Institute and then you all can be busy.

Friday, May 5, has been set aside as the Annual Open House Day at the Institute. On that day, from 2 to 10 p. m., the Institute will be open to the public and the various departments will be in full operation. As this is the only time during the year to see everything in full swing, a large number of visitors is expected. The various exhibits will be explained fully to the public and everyone is assured of an interesting as well as educational exhibits. Why not bring the family, and friends, (girl-friends included) and treat them to an afternoon's or evening's visit and thus help to advertise your dear old "Alma Mater"?

Try an Auto Salesroom

Such fun, this job hunting! You know, being a college man I never wear a hat. Yesterday I was standing in a bookshop waiting to be hired when a lady came in, picked up a book and handed me two dollars. Today I'm going to loiter in a piano store.

Shoddy

TRUE FRIENDSHIP

You may be six kinds of a liar,
You may be all kinds of a fool,
You may be a wicked high flyer
Beyond any reason or rule;
There may be a shadow above you
Of perils and woes that impend
And I may not respect, but I love you
Because, — well, because you're my friend!

I know you have faults by the million
And at times you're inclined to be wild,
I know that your record's vermillion
And you're far from a sweet angel child;
But you've always been square with yours truly,
Always ready to help or defend,
And though there are times you're unruly,
I love you,—because you're my friend?

I knock you, I know, but I do it
The same to your face as away;
But if other folks knock you, they rue it
And wish they'd had nothing to say.
I never make diagrams of you
No map of your soul have I penned,
For I don't analyze—I just love you,
Because,—well, because you're my friend.

And as Jurewicz so aptly says "The modern style of dancing is sensation without gratification."

First Student's Father: "What will your son be when he has completed his studies?"

2nd Oitto: "A very old man."

He: "There are an awful lot of girls who don't want to get married."

She: "How do you know?"

He: "I've asked them."

He: "Thanks for the gate.

She: "Just because I gave you the gate is no reason why you should take a fence."

Joe Burke: "I lost ten dollars yesterday."

Bill Stein: "How's that?"

Joe: "Cotton went up ten dollars a bale and I didn't have a bale."

1936 Column

The members of the class of '36 who participated in the Textile Show are to be congratulated for their very creditable performance. Well done, fellows!

Tuesday, May 9, is Upstream Day. Have you arranged to go? If not do so immediately. It is desired that this Upstream Day be the most successful one ever held. If in doubt as to the nature of the program just ask an upper classman and you'll surely go.

A freshmen quartet is reported to be planning assault on Mount Washington in the near future. Evidently the Textile curriculum induces the boys to strive for the higher things of nature.

It is generally conceded that the 1936 class picture was the best picture in the Pickout.

Several freshmen are turning in very creditable performances as members of the baseball squad. The class of '36 is giving fine support to athletics.

Only a few more weeks remain of this school year. Indeed we have had our "ups and downs," but not without our share of fun. The final exams will be here shortly. Let us tackle them with vigor and leave none to annoy us next year.

Valentine has again broken into the headlines by issuing a strong denial that he snatches a puff of Bill Robinson's pipe when Bill is out.

Harry Finlay recently paid a visit to the Institute. He hopes to return to school next year.

Our one man track team "Emma" Hirsch is still going strong. Maybe we will have a decathalon representative in intercollegiate circles soon.

Ask Berg what the big attraction of May 12th is? Dolores has not received an invitation.

Crawford recently unearthed an ancient bit of entomology with his classical "perturbed." Kaiser and Hirsch thought he had pulled a fast one on them.

Lincoln made a strong bid for recognition as one of baseball's immortals when he robbed Duggan of a hard drive in a recent ball game. Lincoln admits he was quite surprised to find that he had caught the ball.

ALWAYS THE BEST

The Cut Sheet

(With Apologies to the Registrar)

After seeing how badly the editor "cut" the last edition of this column, I decided to get even by taking up a lot of his less valuable space (which is required for our surplus of advertisements, etc.) by giving the student body, as well as the general public, the low-down on the many and varied events which have occurred since the last issue. Among these events have been the tour of the Lowell Fertilizer Works by the junior chemists, the flood, the "going off" of the gold standard, the Pickout's arrival, and last but far from the proverbial least—the Tech Show. So here goes. . . .

After inspecting the female stenographers of the rendering works, the junior chemists donned white coats which gave the fellows the appearance of so many surgeons in consultation. . . Leslie had a frock passed out to him which would have fit "Horton" Brown. And after climbing to the top of a hundred-foot tower, he failed to use it as a parachute. . . "Zeke" Garner came near losing a mudguard when a loaded six-ton truck missed his parked car by inches. . . . "Bill" Wynn couldn't take it. The odors of "rotting" meat, fish, bones, etc., was too much for "Bill." Incidentally, "Bill" received a 'phone call evoncerning his experiences in South Lowell. He is still wondering who the young lady was and how she found out. . . . All of the fellows returned to the Institute with a healthy appetite. Oh! yeah!

Old Man River sure went on the warpath. "Joe" Pizzuto was able to get to school though, because he had a boat tied to his second story window. . . . Henderson had to take the long way around on Tuesday night. No bouquets this time, Bob. . . . "Eddie" Donohoe managed to drag "Weary" Raymond to Tyngsboro and back in order that they might get a more complete idea of the damage caused by the flood. Since they couldn't bum a ride, "Weary" is now eligible to become a first class scout after traversing the fourteen miles. . . . The engineers found one of the mills which was under water on their recent trip. . . . "Bob" Kennedy '36, also enjoyed a walk along the river but it is a safe bet that his interest was not centered on the river. . . . "Red" Dunn found ample opportunity to point out the swollen Merrimack to one fair lady..

Uncle Sam has seen fit to go off the gold standard. At least Cush is thankful for it has given his something about which to talk. . . . Leslie maintains that one can still get just as much for a dollar in Saugus. . . . The juniors are wondering if they will have to buy a new economics book to study about inflation. . . . Evidently "Rusty's" stock took a rise for he now has a car. . . . Rumor has it that frosted wool is making certain instructors more able to cope with the inflation.

The "Pickout" has appeared to all to the Recher graft pool. How many more rackets do you want, "Ted?" . . . Correction No. 1: In the Pickout, it was stated that someone discovered Ralph Harwood was the Walter Winchell of the Text. Harwood has nothing to do with this column, Mr. Editor. I hope he sues you for libel. . . We note that Jessen was mentioned quite frequently (in fact too frequently for a freshman). Maybe he'll go to church after this and be seen but not heard like all good little boys. . . That "shut" of the washer proved that Murphy is a poor photographer. . . . Maybe I shouldn't offer such destructive criticism. Consequently, let it be known that increase in the number of photos has met with approval. . . In a previous issue, I mentioned that a picture of Morrison and his better half would appear in the Pickout. It did. Naf Sed.

In the last issue it was mentioned that Henderson had selected a good orchestra for the Show. All those who attended had only the most favorable comments concerning the Goodrich Silvertown Cord Orchestra. . . . All members of the cast are to be congratulated upon their excellent work, but who in "———" was on the lights. . . . An unforgivable error on the part of the management was the fact that the picture of the leading man was not shown individually either in the local papers or in the program, although several of those playing lesser roles had their pictures put in the papers several times. . . .. After the dance, Fox was seen leaving the Auditorium as if he were going on a honeymoon. I even congratulated him when I saw him carrying the suitcase. . . . "Bill" Wynn and "Bob" Henderson stood out next to Jessen. . . We noticed that the make-up man fixed Wynn's mustache so that it could be seen. . . .

Is it so: That the Casa Loma Orchestra was supported by their loyal stand-bys Reigbeder and Henderson at Roseland recently. . . . Gifford has taken an interest in certain Chelmsford school teachers lately? . . . "Benny" Thomas was "pooped" in school the other day because he spent the entire evening and part of the early morning hours with his girl friend who was recently graduated as a nurse and consequently no longer has to be in by 11.00 p. m.? . . . That there was a fire on the "East" Campus last week? . . . "Buddy" Sugden recently told some of the boys about the products of the Harvard Brewing Company in the good old days? . . . "Glennie" Kidder was a bit peeved last week when the boys dismantled his slide rule and oversharp pencil? . . . Leslie is not the only one who has attractions in No. Andover. "Bill" Wynn is also a bit interested.

A Sure Visit

"Mother, it it true that an apple a day keeps the doctor away?"

"Yes, dear. Why?"

"Well, I've kept 13 doctors away this morning, but I'm afraid one'll have to come this afternoon."

Pupil: "On what topic shall I write?"

Teacher: "Don't write on the topic, write on the paper."

One-way Orders

Johnny was sent to the store with instructions to hurry back. A long time later he came in panting and puffing as if he had been running. His mother was, of course, very angry

"Johnny," she questioned, "what took you so long? I told you to hurry back."

"I did hurry back," said Johnny. "I ran all the way. But you didn't tell me to hurry both ways."

Returned Early

A new one on the absent-minded man.

A fellow who put on his office door a card saying: "Out. Will be back in ten minutes," and on his return sat down on the stair steps to wait for himself.

Something to Say

—not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click . . . I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

That mustache on Jarewicz should come in handy for straining the beer now. Why not rent it out, "Bill?"

Ate Too Much

Toward the end of dinner little Tommy suddenly put down his spoon and pushed his plate of uneaten pudding to one side. His mother glanced at her son in great astonishment. "Why, Tommy," she cried, "what's the matter?" You look mournful—didn't you want your pudding?" "Yes," was the reply of the small boy, "that's just it. I am more'n full."

A man entered an hotel, placed an umbrella in the stand and tied a card to it on which was written: "This umbrella belongs to a champion prizefighter. Back in ten minutes."

When he returned, the umbrella was gone. The card, however, was still there, and on it was added: "Umbrella was taken by champion long-distance runner. Won't be back at all."

A father asked his son if he needed any help with his lessons. "Aw, no, dad," replied the youngster; "I might as well get it wrong by myself."

"What do you do with your clothes when you wear them out?"
"Wear them home again, naturally."

Although the team was blamed with five errors behind Garner's pitching, they looked quite impressive in the pinches. The Textile nine hammered seven safe blows from the offerings of Hemmerich and Elliot, Springfield hurlers. However, the Textile nine made most of their hits and had trouble with Springfield only in the eighth inning.

Sweet City Visitor: "Why are you running that steam roller thing over that field?"

Farmer, on steam tractor: "I'm going to raise a crop of mashed potatoes this fall."

Second Aisle to the Left

Floorwalker (at 1 a. m., to burglar in his home): "Silverware? Yes, sir. Step this way."

First Tenderfoot: "What is that lump you have on your forehead?"
Second Tenderfoot: "Oh, that is where a thought struck me."

A woman with more money than brains was bragging about her trip to the city. "We bought lots of lovely things, a big hat all trimmed with oyster feathers."

It was a wet, miserable night, and the car was crowded. Suddenly a coin was heard to drop. An old man stooped and picked it up.

"Has any one lost a dollar?" he inquired anxiously.

Nine passengers hurriedly searched their pockets and shouted, "I have."

"Well, I've found a penny toward it," said the old man.

SIGMA OMEGA PSI

The Textile Show was a great success as far as S. O. P. was concerned. All the boys who attended had a great time.

* * *

Leo Gleckien came down with his mustache and all. He must have been feeling pretty good because he danced nearly all of the dances.

* * *

"Si" Shapiro was a great success as a dancing instructor. He gave Mr. Hindle's wife her first lesson of "How to dance the Four Hundred."

* * *

The Saturday night following the Show we had a house party at which we all had a great time. Our most enjoyable evening was not at all interrupted by complaints which we had expected would arrive.

* * *

For once we must give "Mac" Plovnick the credit that is due him. It is the first time that he brought a girl who met with the approval of all the boys. Keep up the good work, Mac.

* * *

Ray Cowan is again showing that motherly instinct which cropped up a while ago. We found him, Saturday night in his car with a "Babe" in his arms.

* * *

We have discovered another track man in the house. Ever since "Steeks" Stolzberg drank that bottle of citrate of magnesia he has been breaking all records.

* * *

We had two visitors at the house over the week-end. John Berg's friend from New York came up for a visit, and Eddie Grossman's brother also stopped at the house. We think that Eddie takes after his brother—bashful, shy, and very quiet. (Horse feathers). Both of these boys have intentions of attending the institute next year.

* * *

Spring is here and the folks are beginning to drop around at the house on Sundays. An invitation is extended to all to visit us anytime on Sundays.

"I'm not crying like I used to, I guess."
"What's wrong?"
"Last week I got a dime every time and now dad only gives me a nickel!"

"It asks no questions, but you have to answer it frequently.
"What is it?"
"A door-bell."

It was a great pleasure to see Pete Gross, who dropped in while making a business trip, after a lapse of 3 years.

Johnny: "Say Dad, remember the story you told me about the time you were expelled from school?"
Dad: "Yes."
Johnny: "Well, isn't it funny how history repeats itself?"

The new hardware clerk prided himself on always having a snappy comeback.

"Do you keep refrigerators?" the timid-looking woman inquired quietly.

"No," he snapped, "we sell them."

"Anyway," she said, as she strolled toward the door, "you'll keep the one you were going to sell me. Good morning."
